

LIVE ART PERFORMANCE

During the last storm, that an old, big birch fell down in the garden of painter, sculptor and author Clodagh Holahan in Unterschleißheim.

This was the birth of the idea, to take a piece of wood from this tree and to create an immortal sculpture out of this natural product.

Richard Coghlan, a young, Irish sculptor and performance artist, will realise this project right beside the place the tree had fallen.

Everybody who is interested to watch this extraordinary event is invited. Beside the sculpturing it is also possible to visit a selected exhibition of Clodagh's paintings and sculptures.
